

Close your eyes.
Take a deep breath.
What do you see?
Do you see something spectacular?
Is there something back there,
a deeply true vision
that makes your pulse quicken?
What is it you want to see
on the backs of your eyelids
when you close your eyes to dream?
Do you see diamonds?
I do.
I see acres of diamonds in you.
I can help you see them too.
So let's get mining.
Let's look at your diamonds
— marvel at them in your light! —
and really connect to your dream, because it's already real.
Let's start with our conversations.
At its root, it's "to change together."
It's transformative.
It's an exchange.
Of energy, of words, of time, of care,
of faith in the process.
Ultimately, conversation is mining for
each other's truth,
our diamonds in the rough.
So let's do it.
Open your eyes.
Let's get true.
